

English Idioms for Success in Business

1

in the bag

If you have something 'in the bag' it means that it's certain you've got the deal. The deal is basically closed.

"As the votes continued to roll in, it became clear that the campaign had been a success and the new candidate had the election in the bag."

from rags to riches

A rags to riches tale is when a person rises from being very poor or unknown, to being wealthy and successful.

"Throughout her childhood, Dolly Parton's parents struggled to make ends meet, but she has since enjoyed a rags to riches rise to stardom and a decade-spanning career."

(to go) from strength to strength

To become increasingly successful and make continuous improvements is to go from strength to strength.

"Since the interview with our manager appeared in the local paper, our company has received a lot of good press and things are going from strength to strength."

(to be) ahead of the pack

If you are ahead of the pack, you are ahead of the competitors in your field. This is similar to another idiom, to be 'on top of your game', which means you are performing at your best and everything is going well for you.

"We feel confident about our product. We are ahead of the pack in terms of the sustainability of the materials used, and we believe it to be the best on the market."

(to go) through the roof

If something 'goes through the roof' it soars, increases, goes up very quickly.

"The advertising campaign was a massive success. Our sales have gone through the roof!"

Write your answers to the following questions.

1. Can you think of an example of a rags to riches tale?

2. What is a company that you consider to be ahead of the pack in your field?

3. Can you remember a time that a brand or celebrity went viral and their sales or social media followers went through the roof? What happened to cause this?
